WHAT IS ARCHITECTURAL AND INTERIOR DESIGN DRAWINGS?

Architectural drawings are visual representations created by architects and designers to communicate the design and details of a building or structure. These drawings typically include floor plans, elevations, sections, and other views that show the layout, dimensions, and features of the building. They serve as a roadmap for construction, helping builders and contractors understand how to bring the design to life.

Interior design involves planning and designing the interior spaces of a building to create functional and aesthetically pleasing environments.

In essence, architectural drawings set the overall design vision, interior design focuses on creating appealing and functional indoor spaces, and shop drawings provide detailed instructions for constructing and fabricating specific elements within a project.
